

EXHIBIT 6

Emails2

[westcoasttwiggs@yahoo.com]

Sent: Sunday, October 07, 2012 11:24 AM
To: Ballock Ellen
Subject: Weekend

You were missed greatly this weekend. Just like at the wedding. There are going to be regular gatherings here and elsewhere. A lifetime together, making memories and sharing love. It's not too late to join us again for the ride.

Halloween soon in Lansing. Sometime during Thanksgiving week in Cleveland. Sue is renting cabins for all of us at Nisso this fall. Christmas break in NYC. Ski/water park weekend in Boyne. And that's just the macmurrays and lucaseses. I am going to Indy this week to look up old friends and say goodbye to Melissa Secor. Then to Bloomington during the week to say goodbye to us and where I will see Mascari to tell him the news, ask him to play me a song on his guitar, and watch him swing on the trapeze. I won't even list out the rest because it pains me to know that you won't be there with us. From: scottballock@yahoo.com

Sent: Sunday, October 07, 2012 11:16 AM
To: Ballock Ellen
Subject: Choices

Flag Status: Flagged

And I don't accept the premise - no one does - that you have no choice. I have offered you a wonderful alternative. I have made changes, committed to you, laid out a plan of action, put safeguards in place. This is a choice you are making. "Change" you said. Then when I did you said it was a slap in the face that I changed.

And no one believes that the choice you are making is a correct one. Ask anyone - save for those you pay cash to and those who stick their dick in you - if it's healthy to immediately begin dating and having sex. The well educated, intelligent, moral people I talk to are appalled and in disbelief. And then when I tell them about the boy you chose, they cringe. Seriously, ask people whose opinions you respect if what you're doing is healthy and right. Reverse the roles and tell them it's me who is leaving the kids at home to go have sex with a dirty troll and that I've already fallen for her. See their reactions. From: scottballock@yahoo.com

Sent: Sunday, October 07, 2012 10:41 AM
To: Ballock Ellen
Subject: Breakfast
Attachments: photo.JPG; ATT00148.txt

Our money isn't good here. Such generous people. I understand your anger and hurt and your fears, I really do. But I still can't believe you quit. That you gave up on me, gave up all this. For Kinny and Chris this weekend. You need to think about your future and what's important and what will bring you long lasting love and fulfillment. Your kids are struggling. I asked Tommy why he is so quiet this morning and he said that he doesn't want to go home today. Consider this weekend the latest of your mistakes. With plenty more to come because of your anger, your inability to forgive, and your desire to hurt me by making love to others right now. Your vision is so blinded by hatred and anger, you feed off of it. You actually enjoy hurting me. Your hormones are so strong that you lower yourself to the land of the trolls, not just for sex but for friendship. While people understand that we may have separated, they are as disgusted as I am by your choice to bed with someone like Kinny. Embarrassing and humiliating were the words mentioned this weekend. Embarrassing for you, humiliating for me. Your hatred and anger and inability to not be controlled by your hormones combine to prevent you from being fair about the goodness of our relationship, the strength of our bonds, the good qualities we shared, the importance of our family, the enormity of the struggles you and I and the kids will now face, the values you used to have, the comfortable and wonderful future we had in store for us. In counseling you went from being madly in love with me and wanting to make it work, to hating me and wanting to learn how to be a strong, independent, single woman. When you struggle, remember that you had choices to make. And you were invited here this weekend to begin the healing. I'm angry